ibml

Federal Government Solutions

Provide enhanced services to constituents

ibml solutions are proven in a wide range of federal government agencies such as the FBI, ATF and Social Security.

With ibml solutions, government entities can capture any paper or electronic document, including government mandated forms, photos, checks, correspondence and historic documents to achieve operational efficiencies and enhance information management.

ibml intelligent capture solutions are proven in a wide range of federal government applications including census, tax processing, public records, housing and human services, national security, justice and more.

Our intelligent scanning has streamlined operations for the following U.S. government agencies: ATF, Department of Homeland Security, FBI, Department of the Treasury, Department of State, Social Security Administration and Department of Veteran's Administration.

Provide superior service to constituents
Quickly and accurately track documents and resolve inquiries with valuable information captured from forms and unstructured documents submitted by constituents.

Provide decision makers what they need
Deliver high-quality information more quickly to key decision makers and facilitate collaboration with secure online access to document images and related data.

Streamline records management
Digitize public records and other documents to more quickly comply with constituent and inter-agency inquiries and to ease the ever-increasing burdens of long-term document retention.

Speed processing cycle times
Accelerate tax processing, benefits determination and other constituent services through reduced document preparation, automated data capture and validation, and faster delivery of higher quality information to downstream systems.

Reduce operational costs
Virtual batching of tax returns and co-mingled scanning of mixed document types streamlines document preparation while automated data capture and validation reduces data entry and errors.

Comply with evolving regulations
Complete, consistent, auditable and secure data capture helps government entities comply with continually evolving data privacy regulations.

Let's Get Started
To learn more about our intelligent capture solutions, contact sales@ibml.com or visit www.ibml.com

February 2020